AL HIRSCHFELD

Al Hirschfeld frequented The Algonquin Hotel throughout his life. Many of the Round Table members were friends and patrons who helped launch Hirschfeld's nearly century long career.

His 1962 drawing of the Round Table is so iconic that it illustrates the Encyclopedia Britannica's entry on the group. In 1991 a suite was named in his honor, and now his art, many with hidden NINAs, is in every room and corridor.

The nonprofit Al Hirschfeld Foundation promotes the dramatic arts and supports performing arts spaces all over the country. You can look up every drawing Hirschfeld created, visit digital exhibits, and immerse yourself in 20th Century popular culture at www.AlHirschfeldFoundation.org
